INTERNATIONAL DAY OF ACTION FOR MAJA AND ALL ACCUSED ANTIFASCISTS

One week before the verdict – solidarity with Maja and all accused antifascists!

On 22 January 2026, the verdict is expected in Budapest in the trial against the accused antifascists. One week earlier, on 15 January 2026, we are calling for nationwide and Europe-wide actions in front of Hungarian embassies and consulates.

Maja has been imprisoned in Hungary for over 530 days and is being prosecuted in a political show trial that began even before their imprisonment. Hungary is known for systematic rule-of-law deficits, political arbitrariness, and inhumane prison conditions. In letters, Maja reported long-term solitary confinement and isolation, constant surveillance, hardly any social contact, inadequate hygiene, and restricted medical care. That Maja was extradited there is a scandal.

The upcoming verdict is a turning point—not only for Maja; it can form the legal basis for further extraditions to Hungary.

That's why: join our campaign for Maja's immediate transfer back and freedom for all accused antifascists. Let's bring this demand back into the public eye and onto the streets. Help us rebuild pressure on the responsible politicians, organize protest, and show the accused your solidarity. We won't stop!

We will not leave the accused alone. We demand humane prison conditions and Maja's immediate return. We protest against the Hungarian judiciary and cross-border repression. Freedom for all accused and prisoners!
